Here is an example of how my students' work created with different tools back in 2006 still have a life on the internet.

The SLC assembly planned for September 21st has been postponed due to a conflict with calendar arrangements for booking the Auditorium with the CELDT testing. Please accept my apologies to the Administration, faculty and staff for the further delays. A suitable calendar date is now being sought.

Our Next Meeting will focus on MyData
We will login together and identify students in our classes we can target for assistance. We will also talk about the which SDAIE strategies or other interventions might be best for them.

I like to use this SDAIE strategies anticipatory guide when I plan all of my lessons. Not all of them are applicable for every day use, but I do make a point to utilize a minimum of 2 SDAIE strategies per class period. I also want to share that I these strategies are not only helpful for ELL but also for all students, honors and gifted included. My favorites are: choral reading, graphic organizers

Mayra Lara Quickwrite, Round Table, and speed dating (not mentioned here). Again, these are just some that I have found useful in everyday lessons, I have used others like anticipatory guides and famous person mystery, at the beginning or end of particular units.

Jim Burke of the English Companion posts many reading graphics free for teachers to use. He has more in books which you can purchase.

Mayra Lara I'm sorry I didn't attend the meeting. Via the transcript I see that the meeting days were set for Tues, but due to UTLA meetings could we move the dates to Mon, Thurs, or Fri's? If not, it's not a problem just thought I would share my opinion.

Mayra Lara Instead of actual video or us talking about our classes, could there be still pictures of us in our classrooms and students working? Only because, in some respect, most students know what they are going to do and expected to do in an English class, thus talking about it may seem a bit bland.

September 13th Meeting
Announcement and Agenda placed in teacher's mailbox on 9-12

I have attached documents from principal's meeting last week. The primary message to take to SLCs and Departments was helping our ELL population. They were the sub population of students that had the lowest API gains.

The principal would like the faculty to review SDAIE techniques we use with our students.
